Last Night

Dylan Tice sliced a game winning single down the left field line to propel the T-Bones to walk off winners 4-3 over Chicago. Hunter Adkins was solid for the T-Bones with the bull pen once again finding a way to get the job done. Joe Filomeno worked two scoreless innings to get the relief win.

Today

The T-Bones host Chicago in the final game of the three-game series. KC will send out LHP Jayson Aquino (0-0, 5.06) with Chicago countering with RHP Josh Goossen-Brown (4-5, 4.95).

Vs. Chicago

The T-Bones swept the first series between the two clubs ever at Impact Field in Chicago back in late May. The T-Bones won the first two in Kansas and now KC leads the series 5-0.

STEAK BITES

Getting to know the Dogs

The Chicago Dogs are in their first year in the American Association and play their home games in Rosemont, Illinois just below the flight path of O'Hare Airport. Their new home is 6,300 seat Impact Field that was opened this year. The first game was a loss on May 25th to Kansas City by a score of 8-4. The name Hot Dogs comes from the famous Chicago style dogs and was selected by a fan vote. Their colors and logo also reflect the City of Chicago flag color scheme as well as the famous stars on the city flag. The club is managed by former Red Sox skipper and Major Leaguer Butch Hobson. The team is led at the plate by Trey Vavra with 11 home runs and 93 RBIs and Edwin Arroyo with three long balls and 30 RBI with a .331 clip at the plate. Former T-Bone Rich Mascheri has a 2.31 ERA in 33.1 innings with 40 strike outs and Kaohi Downing from Honolulu has 11 saves for the Dogs.

20/20 Vision

With the current record of 43-22 the T-Bones are 21 games above .500 a new franchise high. The T-Bones are ahead of last year's pace by five games. In 2017 after 65 games KC sat at 38-27 and would go on to finish at 57-43 the second-best record in club history. Joe Calfapietra arrived on the scene last season and during his tenure the T-Bones have been above .500 for 150 days including the last 83 days of the 2017 season. Last season the team was 15 games above .500 on August 13th the highest of the season and at the time the second highest number in franchise history. The 2010 team finished 58-42 in Tim Doherty's first season at the helm on KC the highest point until the T-Bones passed that mark earlier this month.

Year Days above .500

2018	61	From May 25 th on.
2017	83	From June 14 th the rest of the way in 17
2016	3	The T-Bones were 7-7 on June 1st on 2016 the latest the club was at .500 in 2016.
2015	2	In 2015, the club reached the .500 mark on the second to the last day of the season on September 6th
2014	1	In 2014 the club was 30-30 on July 18th and never reached .500 again
2013	1	1-1 to start 2013 the last point the team was at .500 that season
2012	66	The team was at or above .500 for 66 games from June 22nd until the end of the season.

Moving on up

Simon Singles T-Bones Past Wichita in Walk-Off

Victory

The Kansas City T-Bones (34-38) saw an early five-run lead evaporate, but a walk-off single by center fielder Keanon Simon secured a 9-8 victory over the Wichita Wingnuts (40-32) in front of 5,526 fans on Friday night at CommunityAmerica Ballpark. Kansas City opened up a 5-0 lead against Nick Singleton after four innings, using six hits and six walks to chase the right-hander after three-plus innings. Singleton walked in two runs in that span, but would not factor into the decision.

Devin Anderson held Wichita scoreless through five innings before allowing the first six batters to reach safely in the sixth on three hits, a walk and two hit batters. After a walk to Josh Workman reloaded the bases for the Wingnuts, Drew Graham entered and surrendered a sacrifice fly to his first batter before inducing an inning-ending double play groundout from Edwin Bellorin. Wichita scored four runs in the frame to pull within one, 5-4. Anderson was charged with four runs on six hits in five-plus innings, but did not factor into the decision.

The T-Bones responded with three runs in the bottom half of the inning, collecting five hits in the frame while extending their lead to 8-4. Wichita answered quickly in the top of the seventh, loading the bases against Graham before Steven Stewart entered the contest. A double by Brent Clevlen and RBI groundout from Juan Richardson cut the deficit to one, 8-7. Stewart remained in the game in the eighth and surrendered a leadoff single to Bellorin. After a groundout moved him to second, the Wingnuts' catcher advanced to third on a wild pitch before scoring on a sacrifice fly by Tyler Robbins to tie the game at eight. Following another single, Kyle Dahman (2-3) took over for Kansas City and got Clevlen to flyout to end the inning.

Dahman held Wichita scoreless in the top of the ninth keep the teams even entering the bottom of the frame. Kendy Batista (0-1) remained in the game for the Wingnuts after a scoreless eighth and got a quick out before hitting the next two batters. Following a strikeout, Simon connected for his game-winning single to give the T-Bones a 9-8 victory. Simon finished four-for-five with two bunt singles. Ray Sadler drove home a run with a single in the sixth inning to push his hit streak to 12 games. His on-base streak reached 20 games with a walk in his first at bat.

MEET THE T-BONES STARTING PITCHER

Today's starter #14 LHP Jayson Aquino

On July 19, 2018, the Kansas City T-Bones announced the club had signed left-handed pitcher Jayson Aquino for the 2018 season.

The 25-year-old Aquino was born in San Pedro de Macoris, Dominican Republic. He signed with the Colorado Rockies as an international free agent on July 2, 2009. In 2010, at 17 years old, he began his professional career with the Dominican Summer League Rockies, going 4-3 in 12 starts, with a 1.02 ERA and 59 strikeouts in 612²/₃ innings. He also played the 2011 season with the DSL Rockies, and pitched to an 8-2 record and 1.30 ERA with 80 strikeouts in 892²/₃ innings. In 2012, Aquino pitched for both the DSL Rockies and the Rookie Grand Junction Rockies with a combined record of 10-1, a 1.66 ERA, and 110 strikeouts in 1081²/₃ innings.

In 2013, Aquino was promoted to the Short-Season A Tri-City Dust Devils and later the Class-A Asheville Tourists. He went 0-10 in 87 innings over 14 starts, with a 4.34 ERA with 73 strikeouts. He was added to the Rockies' 40-man roster on November 20, 2013. In 2014, Aquino played with the Advanced-A Modesto Nuts and the Double-A Tulsa Drillers, posting a combined 5-10 record, a 5.13 ERA, and 83 strikeouts in 107 innings pitched.

He was designated for assignment by the Rockies on January 30, 2015 and traded to the Toronto Blue Jays on February 4, 2015. The Blue Jays optioned Aquino to the Double-A New Hampshire Fisher Cats on March 8, 2015. On May 10, he was traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates, who traded him to the Cleveland Indians on July 29, 2015.

Aquino was claimed off waivers from the Indians by the St. Louis Cardinals on December 9, 2015. He was traded to the Baltimore Orioles on April 7, 2016, where pitched for the Bowie Baysox of the Class-AA Eastern League and was an Eastern League Mid-Season All-Star before he was promoted to the major leagues on July 4, 2016. He debuted that day, pitching two-thirds of an inning unscathed against the Los Angeles Dodgers, retiring both batters he faced: Chase Utley and Corey Seager.

Aquino made his first career start in the majors on April 22, 2017 for the Baltimore Orioles against the Boston Red Sox at Oriole Park at Camden Yards. He went six innings, giving up just two runs on six hits and three walks, while striking out two batters. Aquino earned the victory in a 4-2 Orioles win, the first of his Major League career.

In the majors, he pitched in a total of seven games, with a 1-2 record with 16 strikeouts over 152²/₃ innings. He elected free agency on November 6, 2017 and signed a new minor league contract with Baltimore on December 22. In 2018, he pitched in 572²/₃ innings over 12 games, with a 4-6 record, 40 strikeouts and a 5.15 ERA. Aquino was released on June 19, 2018.

With the White Sox system, Winiarski reached AA Birmingham in 2015, and over parts of five seasons he would post a 4-7 record with a 4.00 ERA in 157.2 innings with 197 strike outs. His 2015 season was cut short in June because of an arm injury, and he did not return to the White Sox until late 2016. After Tommy John surgery in July of 2015, he returned for one game in 2016 with the rookie level White Sox of the AZL.

Meet the “Man on the top step”

On November 30, 2016, Joe Calfapietra was named the T-Bones sixth manager in the club’s history. Calfapietra (pronounced Cal-fa-pee-eh-tra), 47, brings an overall record of 905-783 into his second season in Kansas City and his 18th season as a manager, all at the independent level. Calfapietra guided Kansas City to the second best overall franchise record in the club’s history (57-43) with the team finishing in a three-way tie for a post season spot for the league the wild card. The T-Bones did not advance due to a tie breaker but Calfapietra turned over the 2017 roster with only one hold over from the 2016 helping the club reached a franchise high of 84 days above .500 out of a 109 day season. Despite a 1-5 start to begin the season, his 2017 club reached .500 at 7-7 at Sioux Falls on June 2nd and stayed at or above for 93 days and 83 in a row. With the win on August 26th at Gary, Calfapietra won his 900th career game. He hit the 50-win mark August 23rd at home against Cleburne for the seventh straight season. Calfapietra spent 14 seasons as the manager of the New Jersey Jackals of the Can-Am League before taking over the dugout reigns of the T-Bones in 2017. While in New Jersey, only four of those 14 teams did not reach the postseason. The Jackals won the league championship in 2004, at the end of Calfapietra’s second season in New Jersey, and then his teams reached the league championship series in five consecutive seasons, 2011-15. In 2016, the Jackals went 62-38, before losing in the first round of the Can-Am playoffs. The T-Bones and Calfapietra’s Jackals faced each other seven times in interleague play since 2012, with New Jersey winning four of those games. Calfapietra started his coaching career in 1994 in this organization, when the T-Bones were in Duluth, Minn., and were known as the Dukes. In 2002, Calfapietra was the first-ever manager of the Gary SouthShore RailCats, where he was the league manager of the year, before starting with New Jersey the following season. Calfapietra lives in Collegeville, Pa., with his wife and their two daughters, ages 17 and 11. Calfapietra is the T-Bones’ sixth manager since the team moved from Duluth prior to the 2003 season and when he took over in 2017 he replaced John Massarelli, who went 139-160 in three seasons with Kansas City, including 42-58 in 2016.

Did you know?

-T-Bones Manager Joe Calfapietra was the first manager of the Gary SouthShore RailCats in 2002, going 35-55, a feat that may seem not too monumental at first glance. Yet, when you consider the team played their entire schedule on the road due to construction delays with their home ballpark, the numbers are impressive. For his efforts, he was named Manager of the Year

Next to 1000

-St. Paul Manager George Tsamis reached 1,000 career wins back on June 12th. He joined former Fargo boss Doug Simunic, current Gary Manager Greg Tagert and first year Chicago Dogs Manager Butch Hobson in the 1,000-win club in indy ball. Who is the next up to 1000 wins? Joe Calfapietra, who currently has 946 wins in his career.
